A TWO-EGGED SWORD

The railroad unions have won a sweeping decision in the wage cut case.

But this does not mean they can ignore the increasingly critical position of the railroads. It should impress on intelligent labor leaders and workmen that their own jobs become daily more insecure as the railroad industry is driven toward the wall.

Railroad men don't switch easily to other occupations. They have seniority rights and pensions which, if the company granting them goes broke, are wiped out, and age prevents the men from regaining them on the same basis.

It has been said that trucks and busses could take over railroad transportation activity. Without arguing the question, where would that leave railroad workers? A large proportion of the railroad men could not get work on busses and trucks because they are not trained in that field, nor would they get the pay they now receive.

As railroad purchases are cut, all business suffers, and this in turn is immediately reflected back in less and less railroad hauling, employment and spending.

It doesn't take much intelligence to see that the present sweeping wage victory is a two-edged sword that can cut both ways. It has imposed a tremendous obligation on railroad labor to cooperate in some manner to help the railroads meet this present emergency and evolve a practical program for the future.

No railroad worker should feel that his cooperation is essential to help railroad management alone. His cooperation is needed primarily to save his own job, his own rights built up in his own industry and his own old-age security.

The railroad situation today is probably the outstanding example of a crisis where cooperation between management and workers is indispensable to save the jobs and investments of each.

ACTIONS SPEAK LOUDER THAN WORDS

Public ownership enthusiasts who favor the policy of charging the cost of power dams to flood control and irrigation not only have no sincere faith in the efficacy of public ownership and operation, but are openly in favor of double-crossing the taxpaying public. And by the same token they favor destruction of private enterprise by deliberately underhanding methods.

The New York Times has made the point inescapably clear: "Any advocate of public ownership and operation who opposes the fullest and most rigidly accurate and honest cost accounting on a public project, who opposes taking into account the same real costs that private enterprise must take into account, is in effect taking the position that the public should be kept in ignorance, or actually hoodwinked, concerning the real costs of government operation."

There would be no utility "problem" if the publicly owned power projects now under construction or actually operating in competition with private companies were relieved of direct and hidden subsidies and forced to adopt accounting methods which the law requires of private utilities. There would be no problem because the private utilities have no reason to fear honest competition, such as obtains in England, where public and private plants are taxed and regulated on precisely the same basis.

BUSINESS DEPENDS ON FUTURE CONGRESS

It is not a coincidence that the substantial improvement occurring in business since last spring took place during a relatively quiet period, so far as domestic affairs were concerned.

Congress was not in session. Comparatively few crack-pot legislative schemes were being aired. Rumors of new and still more extreme experiments were rare. Generally speaking, the attitude of the government was one of cooperation with business.

There is a hint in this for our lawmakers, now that a new legislative session is just in the offing. American business and industry are ready and eager to go places. They are prepared to spend tremendous sums for expansion and betterment, to reemploy hundreds of thousands of workers, and to provide a profitable and productive place of investment for savings. But this can only be done under sane, stable and reasonable government. Uncertainty is one of the worst enemies of economic progress. It breeds lack of confidence—and lack of confidence means retrogression.

The coming Congress will do well if it attends to essential matters, makes short-shrift of what new "wild-eyed" proposals are presented to it, winds up its affairs as soon as possible, and calls it a day. We have had enough of chaos—as nine long years of depression amply testify. Today we need more of that atmosphere of peace and quiet that will enable us to go forward in a normal manner.

What has been going on in Germany had its effect on the last election we are told. Take Hamilton county for instance. The Republicans swept the county in the face of a leading citizen as a Democrat for governor. We all know that Cincinnati has thousands of the finest of German citizens that have been thrifty to the extent that in our darkest days Cincinnati banks braved the storm. We are told that the German element has no use for Hitler and his government. These Cincinnati county citizens have the deepest sympathy for their blood abroad just as the American Jew has for his race that is now being driven from that country. Hundreds of Italians have no use for Mussolini. None of the three peoples as represented in Cincinnati have approved the Munich treaty that placed more power in Hitler's hands. England and France showed cowardice in trading off the poor Czechs to save their hide and gain good will of Hitler and Mussolini. Little Franklin down in Washington joined in the chorus of approval to prevent a "war." The pity of that cry was that Hitler gained without conquest just what he wanted. The powers may have approved of the dirty deal given the Czechs but the average American citizen that probably had blood relatives living abroad under Hitler took advantage of the opportunity to wallop the New Deal as a protest of the Munich treaty.

If we will look around us we may find a situation in this country some what similar to what the Jew finds himself in Germany. How about the Jew and the Chinaman on the West coast? Western states have tried to outlaw both races in various ways due to competition with Americans. Once upon a time there was a Chinaman, Yick Wo, who operated a hand laundry in San Francisco. The city fathers listened to an appeal from American laundries to put the Chinaman out of business. An ordinance was passed requiring permits but the city would issue no permit for a laundry in a frame building, all Chinese laundries being in the cheaper frame buildings. Yick Wo gained what education he had after he came to this country. He left his homeland to live in a country that boasted of its freedom and he had learned that the Constitution of the United States guaranteed that freedom. Being denied a permit Yick Wo did not fear arrest but resorted to the courts. That freedom he sought was not to be found in California courts, but he took his case to the United States Supreme Court and won his permit when the highest court upset every court decision handed down in California.

There is much speculation about the manner in which our immigration laws are being operated. This country has a quota for each nation yearly. It is said the quota from Germany, Italy, Japan and China is holding back several hundred thousand persons seeking admission. We learned years ago that such a quota was necessary. It is said more than 250,000 German citizens would like to come to this country but most of them will never see our shores due to the quota. Germans are asking themselves one question, "How was it possible for a son of a gun to get out of Germany with his wife and ten children?" The new family arrived in this country the past month to make its future home. Was there tampering with the quota either in Germany or this country?

Down in the deep south the New Deal was given a jar that was a surprise to Washington when the election returns were announced. The Miami Herald reports that two precincts in that city were carried by Republican candidates. Probably the south did not relish the Roosevelt fireside chat when Republicans were classed as "Tories" and the Communists enrolled in the Republican camp. Republicans votes were gained in Ohio when Democratic voters switched after hearing FDR in his famous Friday night appeal for a liberal government—not even mentioning the Democratic party. Paul Mallon says neither the sixty top families nor the WPA dominated the election. The verdict was written by the middle class. Had Roosevelt's name been on the ticket his name would have been "Dennis" on Nov. 9th.

Senator Vic Donahey announced this week that he will not seek a second term at the expiration of his first term. The announcement is not definite but it has been intimated for months that the Senator's health was slipping. Gov. Davey has his sails set for this seat.

Dr. Cotton, pastor of Broad Street Presbyterian Church, Columbus, in speaking of some of the bonds uniting foreign groups, mentioned that both have a reputation for frugality. He then gave this definition of a Chinese which he picked up in China: "A Chinese is a man who buys from any Jew and sells to a Scotch Presbyterian at a profit."

For family modesty page the Roosevelt family. A daughter of the family residing in Seattle, Wash., writes a column for a daily in that city. Without going into all details, probably due to family modesty, a Roosevelt 214 N. West St. Xenia, Ohio trait, she announces that a "little bundle of heaven" is to arrive next March and that Mamma must arrange her traveling schedule to be present at that time. We live in a new age, or rather under the New Deal, so nothing shocks anybody. It is well our grandmothers rest in peace. When Grandpa hears of the new arrival he should have a few pairs of three-point cellophane trousers in the layette. If which he picks up in China: "A there are ants in the pants at any time cellophane trousers will show the Jew and sells to a Scotch Presbyterian way."

Love In Waltz Time

A heart-warming love story is set to immortal music in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's superb romance, "The Great Waltz" starring Ferdinand Gravat, and Luise Rainer and introducing Miliza Korjus, a gorgeous blonde with a glorious voice, which will open Friday at the State Theater, with an Owl Show preview, Friday, November 18, for a week of lavish entertainment.

From Vienna's most stirring days, when life was a romance of wine, women and song comes this pulsating love story of two sweethearts, who sang of romance but flirted with tragedy. On such a colorful background is built the tempestuous story of the life of Johann Strauss, whose music then and now sets hearts aflame. This is a picture that once seen and heard can never be forgotten and will remain always a thrill for the memory.

D. A. R. Entertains Members and Guests

"The End of the World" was the subject of an inspiring address by Rev. A. Ward Applegate, pastor of the Friends Church, Wilmington, at the annual banquet for members and guests of Cedar Cliff Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, of Cedarville, in the Rotary Club rooms, in Xenia, Tuesday evening.

In discussing present conditions and needs of the people, Rev. Applegate declared, "We are living in different worlds. We have been living in the world of drink and in the world of prohibition and now we are living in the world of repeal."

Mrs. J. Ervin Kyle, regent, presided and Dr. Roger Henderson, of Clifton, introduced Rev. Applegate. Miss Beatrice McClellan, of near Xenia, Cedarville College student, sang two solos, "The Second Minute," by Beale, and "L'Amour Tou-Jours L'Amour," by Frimel. She was accompanied by Miss Rachel Harriman.

The program was preceded by a banquet at which there were covers for thirty-five members and guests at tables centered with bowls of yellow chrysanthemums. A three course dinner was served.

Following the dinner a short business meeting was conducted when an amendment to the chapters by-laws was adopted creating the office of librarian. Mrs. M. A. Summers was elected to this office.

The next regular meeting of the chapter will be held December 13 with Mrs. Mac Harris and Mrs. Donald Kyle as hostesses.

L. J. TABOR MAY NOT TAKE AG. POST

JAMESTOWN MAN IS DEAD AFTER FALL

In a fall from the roof at the home of W. M. Thomas, near Jamestown, early Thursday, William Person, a carpenter, suffered injuries resulting in his death. Authorities are investigating to learn if the fall might have been caused by Person's coming in contact with electric wires that pass above the house. Person, who leaves his wife and a son, Donald, had resided in Jamestown a long time and was working with Frank Moorman, Jr., who was on the roof, at the time Person fell.

It is believed that Person touched an electric wire that caused him to fall, probably electrocution as the wire carried 3,600 volts.

Package from the country

Millions who live in crowded cities of steel and steel hunger for the healthful richness of wholesome country life. To these millions the bottle of milk at the door each day is a package of health from the country. Milk brings them life-sustaining elements with vitamins and minerals in ideal balance, created in the country from Mother Earth's rich grains and grasses. Outpeople must be told over and over and reminded constantly that milk is Nature's great protective food, or they may turn to other products that clamor for public favor.

Keeping the cities' millions health-conscious and enrolling them in the army of milk-conscious millions is one of the jobs that Borden works at every day.

aside for a season of anxiety to us all, was his physical make up during much of the present year; but recuperating, back into the harness he fitted himself, chosen by his associates as Vice Moderator of the Session, he filled the position as an able substitute in the pastoral duties necessarily transferred through the last long illness and death of Dr. Pollock, than whom no pastor of any congregation could have had a more loving following, grieved beyond expression that such suffering as he bore must be borne alone; and when called home from the harvest of souls his sorrow laden flock knew not how to find comfort except through an appeal to Dr. Pollock's Heavenly Father, who truly revealed to us from the pulpit, and pastoral calls; with always a ready petition from his great heart to the God he loved and the Christ he preached and lived; for the sick or sorrowing within, or without, his pastoral charge.

With our loved pastor's departure, to none other than his noble assistant in congregational supervision, Harry Bull, were all eyes turned; as most fitted to wear the leaders mantle, so far as became a layman's privilege. Brief were the weeks that this shift was so courageously and prayerfully undertaken.

For now Harry too, has joined for an eternity of blessed fellowship with Dr. Pollock; both of whom await the later comings with joyous greeting to those who can but realize through faith alone, an unending reunion awaits those of us who accept the Faith and Trust of Redemptive Grace so faithfully portrayed to us by the never to be forgotten lives and exhortation of these faithful servants of an ever living God, Dr. Robert Allan Pollock and Harry Marshall Bull.

Today as the grief stricken cortege of friends before the church altar passed his flower laden bier, bearing silent but acquiescent acknowledgment of Biblical quotation truth, 'Know ye not that there is a Prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel?'

Joshua's Marching Orders
"Two things were enjoined upon Joshua," says Professor Rollin H. Walker. "Be strong and very courageous; and let not this book of the law depart out of thy mouth." In other words, 'Be Brave, but be sure your courage is wisely directed.

In commenting on an article by Professor William Lyon Phelps of Yale, which appeared in the Good Housekeeping magazine, Judge Hill spoke his conviction that thousands of youths in New York and other cities could be saved from criminal careers through religious training. "As a jurist who judges thousands of crime-broken boys and girls each year," he said, "I agree with Mr. Phelps that religion is necessary to the happiness of American youth, but it is not enough to merely send children to church. Parents, too, must attend, for the child inevitably follows the example set by its father and mother."

"I don't drink," says Joe Platak, nationally famous handball player. "It takes too much out of you—stuff you need when a guy's pushing you for the match."

Youth's Temperance Council members are training for leadership, with the result that young men and young women organized a total of 33 Loyal Temperance Leagues, and sponsored 78 legions during 1937.

The Hon. Fred G. Bale of Washington recently stated publicly that he had made it a practice to visit places where liquor is sold in this nation and to count the number of girls and women present in comparison with the men.

He had found in the places visited during four recent months that the women present outnumbered the men by thirty-two percent.

Clinton N. Howard of Washington, D. C., in an address before the New York Ministerial Association, said:

"The whole world has gone off on a drunk."

"Russia is drunk on vodka, Japan is drunk on sake, Italy is drunk on wine, France is drunk on champagne, England is drunk on half and half, Ireland is drunk on whiskey, and the United States is drunk on them all."

NEWS LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENTS

COLUMBUS.—A complete and detailed change in the Ohio relief set-up was advocated by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson in a report on the administration of poor relief which was prepared by O. P. Van Schoik, chief examiner of the division of relief. Auditor Ferguson proposed that the entire State Department of Welfare and the division of public assistance be revised so far as they pertain to non-institutional administration, and he suggested the appointment of a non-salaried state relief council of from seven to nine members. "Public assistance of today," he said, "such as relates to old age, blind, crippled and dependent children, soldier's and sailor's relief, direct and work relief, unemployment compensation, National Youth administration, Civilian Conservation corps, distribution of surplus commodities, juvenile research, child hygiene and so forth, should be administered under a state authority, with eighty-eight county agencies responsible locally for the direct administration. To administer non-institutional public assistance, I suggest the state authority should be composed of a non-salaried state relief council of seven to nine citizens, appointed by the governor. The council would be empowered to employ an executive director, to serve as long as he shows devotion to public service. The director shall supervise by rules and regulations, consistent with the welfare laws, and under a direct pre-audit examination by the state auditor of fiscal operations as conducted in any other governmental agency of the state or county." He said that local administration should not be divided among the various subdivisions within a county, but should be correlated into one central bureau in order to eliminate the many overlapping, expensive public assistance programs operating as "independent agencies."

A survey conducted by F. E. Williams, secretary of the governor's safety co-ordinating bureau, an organization formed to halt the rapidly climbing accident toll in Ohio, indicated a thirty-one per cent reduction in motor vehicle accidents during the first nine months of the current year when compared with the corresponding period of 1937. The nation as a whole, Mr. Williams pointed out, managed to reduce motor vehicle accidents only twenty-one per cent. Principal reductions were made in the street traffic classification, it was said.

Announcement that entries are being received from Ohio weekly news papers for the annual Osman C. Hooper show, which will be staged in conjunction with the Ohio Newspaper association convention at Ohio State university in late January or early February was made last week by Director James E. Pollard of the university's school of journalism. First, second and third awards will be made in classes for first page, and makeup, news coverage, advertising composition and display, best editorial page, best use of illustrative material, special editions, original columns, and local features. The show is named in honor of Professor Emeritus Osman C. Hooper of the school of journalism and is an annual feature of the association convention.

The division of vital statistics of the State Department of Public Health disclosed that out of ninety-five deaths in Ohio in 1937 from accidental gunshot wounds, nine occurred among hunters, and that in 1937, with 104 deaths from the same cause, twelve occurred among hunters.

Prof. Hostetter Speaks
Friday morning, Prof. A. J. Hostetter of Cedarville College, spoke before the high school assembly. As Friday's assembly marked the close of a week observance of National Education Week during the home room periods, Mr. Hostetter based his remarks on the topic: "Holding Fast to Our Ideals of Freedom."

The speaker briefly outlined the struggle for freedom during the years of America's growth. He warned his hearers that freedom in its true sense is not only without restrictions but may lead to bondage.

The following preliminary program by the seventh grade was announced by Jane Ellen Gilliland: Devotions; Gennie Bradford; piano duet; Martha Jane Creswell and Frances Little; poem, "In Flanders Field"; Billy Ferguson; poem, "America's Answer"; Edna Shaw; biographies of authors of poems—Betty Sharpe.

At eleven o'clock, in recognition of Armistice a moment of silence was observed. James Deek gave the bugle call, followed with selections by the high school brass quartette and sextette.

Special numbers by the high school band were enjoyed by the assembly.

Harry Marshall Bull By D. S. COLLINS

On August 12, 1881, was born the above named second son (later one of a comprising group of seven children, four sons, and three daughters) to Samuel A. and Ella Marshall Bull in their new home erected on an elevated site of the paternal home, a stand farm, of a well remembered and revered couple familiarly known as "Uncle William" and "Aunt Abby" Bull.

Both homes were in close proximity to "East Point" country school, near the dividing line between Xenia and Cedarville townships, Greene county, Ohio. Within the recollection of this writer's knowledge Harry belonged to a third generation of his lineage, which was largely representative of influential membership in that Mother, United Presbyterian congregation, (Massies Creek), of Xenia Presbytery. Aside from "Uncle William" we recall his three brothers (great uncles of Harry) Amos, Scott, and Rankin, all Godly men. Amos and Scott being elders while Rankin held the position of deacon or trustee for all the consecutive years from my first memories to the disbandment of the organized body.

After the dissolution of the old congregation there came a scattering of its membership to surrounding churches and thence to distant points of the United Presbyterian compass. In 1903, we found ourselves in Eastern Texas, from there to the San Luis Valley of Southern Colorado, while today, since 1921, our home has been in a suburban section within the shadows of the Rocky Mountains to the west of Denver. Still we have adhered to the faith of our fathers, and find in the First U. P. Church of that city a "Church of the Friendly Heart," a church home, that is truly in keeping with instilled tenets of a progressive yet orthodox creed of our youthful days in United Presbyterianism.

Not long after reaching here and attending a communion service one Sabbath morning, the pastor announced the reception of certain new members, uniting by profession of faith, or by letter, from other churches where in he, to us named two persons, bearing particularly familiar names. After service, on the way by street car home, I made inquiry of a prominent fellow passenger, and member of the congregation as to whether he knew the person named "Harry M. Bull" as listed in the new members from some church in Rapid City, N. D. Responding he said, I ought to know him, for he's my son-in-law. Questioned further this Mr. George D. Miller advised, this Harry M. Bull was a native of Ohio without knowing the location exactly; but promised to introduce us on the following Sabbath. Truly he did.

But I needed no introduction, for in their advance in front of the church doors, I recognized while ten feet away that I was meeting a son of Samuel A. Bull, our friendly neighbor of years ago. The resemblance in personal features was unmistakable. Soon we established our identities and from that moment there was linked up a bond of mutual interest in the old home relations, while within myself there grew a special regard for this "man among men," as developed through better acquaintance with him.

His spirit of sincerity in character, genial personality, loyalty to principles, moral and religious, drew toward him admiration and cohesion, that meant a higher plane of human experience to those contacting his view points and unassuming endeavor to be of helpfulness where ever opportunity offered. His noble, unselfish nature, and cheery Christian demeanor found him a dynamic leader for the "element making up our denominational young peoples Christian Union; not only was this true locally, but extended into what we have reason to believe a realm of acquaintance and influence not attained by but precious few.

Today Harry M. Bull is missing, except in fond memory to those who knew him well, and they are legion. Death came suddenly to this loved leader last Thursday, November 3rd, as he prepared for leaving home to transport from Denver City his loved ones, absent for the day; this uniting all in the peaceful, restful quietude, of a rural retreat, which we have found long ago was hallowed by union of loving service for one another, so emblematic of Christian companionship, with thankful recognition of a kindly Providence making it possible for them to carry on in the spirit of pals and chums, one for all, and all for one.

Such a man as "Harry" Bull could not be left outside the official circle of the church he loved, and the Master he so truly served. A will ing volunteer he was for any service to his Christ, his pastor and flock, so long as his efforts might be available. Laid

James Thompson Defends Self Against Bandit

James Thompson, 69, who lives near Gladstone, Ross township, was able to fight off the attack of a bandit at his home last Friday night. The robber entered the home masked with a Hal-low-en outfit while Thompson was peeling potatoes in the kitchen. A blackjack was used felling Thompson and in the battle the knife in Thompson's hand was broken. After a struggle on the floor the bandit left by way of the front door where an accomplice waited in an automobile with the motor running. The car headed south.

Thompson in a somewhat battered condition reached for his gun and fired just as the car sped away. Thompson walked to neighboring house and report what had happened. He was bruised about the head and suffered a fractured rib.

Deputy Sheriff Ralph Davis and County Road Patrolman Cecil Strobridge were called and investigated but could find no clues. It is thought the bandit might be local, thinking that Thompson had money on his person. The bandit did not take his pocketbook which contained only a small sum of money. He had deposited $700 some days ago in a bank. Thompson is a bachelor and lives alone.

"Jack" Crites Bags Coot With Fist

John W. Crites, who resides on the Columbus pike, east of town, well-known truck farmer, did not need gun nor trap, but his fist to bag a coot, which with others attacked him while working in his truck patch.

Coots are members of the rail tribe according to sportsmen and are recognized for their mode of travel. They walk, run, swim, and live in bogs in the north during the summer time where they breed. Their habitat during the winter is in the deep south where they live in the swamps.

LIVESTOCK EXPOSITION OPENS NOV. 26

Thousands of the finest farm animals of this country and Canada are now in their final week of grooming preparatory to competing for continental supremacy at the 39th International Live Stock Exposition, which will open in Chicago on the first Saturday after Thanksgiving.

The week of November 26 to December 3 will close America's agricultural show season which is annually brought to a climax at this largest exposition of purebred live stock, prime market animal, and farm crops.

Manager B. H. Heide estimates that the value of the live stock that will be exhibited here this year will exceed $5,000,000. They will represent 29 different breeds, including six breeds of beef cattle, eleven of sheep, seven of swine, and five breeds of draft horses. In addition, there will be several hundred head of the nation's best riding and driving horses and ponies seen in daily contest in the Exposition's Horse Shows.

Mr. Heide reports that twelve breeds have registered increased entries over last year, with an all time high mark recorded for a number of the breed competitions. The list of exhibitors includes many new names, he said, as well as numerous owners who have shown champion and blue ribbon winning animals in the past.

Farm youths from 15 states have made entries for the junior stock show which will be a feature of the opening day. Their exhibits of beebes, lambs, and pigs are again expected to make strong bids for the highest awards of the exposition when they meet the nominations of adult showmen in the open classes.

The junior exhibitors number 274 boys and girls. They will exhibit 395 animals of their own raising of which have been champion or first prize winners at earlier shows this year.

The difficult task of judging the thousands of choice animals that will be in competition at the exposition will be done by 46 men and one woman from 17 states, the District of Columbia and England.

William J. Cumber, a well known British authority of Theale, Berkshire, will tie the ribbons in the fat classes and will conclude his work with the selection of the grand champion steer. He has judged at several leading cattle shows in Great Britain.

Xenia Paper Victim Of False Report

The Xenia Gazette carried a report Monday evening stating the Co-operative Club would honor Dr. W. R. McChesney, representative-elect. Also two new members, Charles Weimer and Marcellus Townsley. Tuesday, the Gazette repudiated the story as false and that the informant, a woman, falsely identified herself.

The facts were Dr. McChesney was in Pennsylvania at the time due to sickness of a relative. Whether the joke was a slam at the Dr. and the club is the question. The club speaker that evening was Miss Jay Joyce, Dayton Herald, reporter.

The story published and later repudiated as false was as follows: COOPERATIVE CLUB

WILL HONOR SOLON
Dr. W. R. McChesney, Cedarville recently elected state representative, will be honored at a dinner and reception by the Cedarville Cooperative Club in the Cedarville M. E. Church, Monday at 8 p. m.

Sharing honors with Dr. McChesney will be Charles Weimer and Marcellus Townsley, recently received into the club as new members.

After dinner there will be a social time with music by Ken Little's Orchestra. Wives of club members will be guests.

Hunters Fail To Bag Many Pheasants

The hunting season opened at noon Tuesday in this state for pheasants and rabbits. The season will close Nov. 30. Rabbits are plentiful this year and of good quality.

"The End of the World" was the subject of an inspiring address by Rev. A. Ward Applegate, pastor of the Friends Church, Wilmington, at the annual banquet for members and guests of the American Revolution, of Cedarville, in the Rotary Club rooms, in Xenia, Tuesday evening.

In discussing present conditions and needs of the people, Rev. Applegate declared, "We are living in different worlds. We have been living in the world of drink and in the world of prohibition and now we are living in the world of repeal."

Mrs. J. Ervin Kyle, regent, presided and Dr. Roger Henderson, of Clifton, introduced Rev. Applegate. Miss Beatrice McClellan, of near Xenia, Cedarville College student, sang two solos, "The Second Minute," by Besley, and "L'Amour Tou-Jours L'Amour," by Frimel. She was accompanied by Miss Rachel Hartman.

The program was preceded by a banquet at which there were covers for thirty-five members and guests at tables centered with bowls of yellow chrysanthemums. A three course dinner was served.

Following the dinner a short business meeting was conducted when an amendment to the chapters by-laws was adopted creating the office of librarian. Mrs. M. A. Summers was elected to this office.

The next regular meeting of the chapter will be held December 13 with Mrs. Mac Harris and Mrs. Donald Kyle as hostesses.

JAMESTOWN MAN IS

DEAD AFTER FALL

In a fall from the roof at the home of W. M. Thomas, near Jamestown, early Thursday, William Person, a carpenter, suffered injuries resulting in his death. Authorities are investigating to learn if the fall might have been caused by Person's coming in contact with electric wires that pass above the house. Person, who leaves his wife and son, Donald, had resided in Jamestown a long time and was working with Frank Moorman, Jr., who was on the roof at the time Person fell.

It is believed that Person touched an electric wire that caused him to fall, probably electrocution as the wire carried 3,600 volts.

Package from the country

Millions who live in crowded cities of stone and steel hunger for the healthful influences of wholesome country life. To these millions the bottle of milk at the door each day is a package of health from the country. Milk brings them life-sustaining elements with vitamins and minerals in ideal balance, created in the country from Mother Earth's rich grains and grasses.

But people must be told over and over and reminded constantly that milk is Nature's great protective food, or they may turn to other products that clamor for public favor.

aside for a season of anxiety to us all, was his physical make up during much of the present year; but recuperating, back into the harness he fitted himself; chosen by his associates as Vice Moderator of the Session, he filled the position as an able substitute in the pastoral duties necessarily transferred through the last long illness and death of Dr. Pollock, than whom no pastor of any congregation could have had a more loving following; grieved beyond expression that such suffering as he bore must be borne alone; and when called home from the harvest of souls his sorrow laden flock knew not how to find comfort except through an appeal to Dr. Pollock's Heavenly Father who he so truly revealed to us from the pulpit and pastoral calls; with always a ready petition from his great heart to the God he loved and the Christ he preached and lived for; the sick or sorrowing within, or without, his pastoral charge.

With our loved pastor's departure, to none other than his noble assistant in congregational supervision, Harry Bull, were all eyes turned; as most fitted to wear the leaders mantle, so far as became a layman's privilege. Brief were the weeks that this shift was so courageously and prayerfully undertaken.

For now Harry too, has joined for an eternity of blessed fellowship with Dr. Pollock; both of whom await the later comings with joyous greeting to those who can but realize through faith alone, an impending reunion awaits those of us who accept the Faith and Trust of Redemptive Grace so faithfully portrayed to us by the never to be forgotten lives and exhortation of these faithful servants of an ever living God, Dr. Robert Allan Pollock and Harry Marshall Bull.

Today as the grief stricken cortege of friends before the church altar passed his flower laden bier, bearing silent but acquiescent acknowledgment of Biblical quotation "truth, 'Know ye not that there is a Prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel?'"

Joshua's Marching Orders
"Two things were enjoined upon Joshua," says Professor Rollin H. Walker. "Be strong and very courageous; and let not this book of the law depart out of thy mouth." In other words, 'Be Brave, but be sure your courage is wisely directed.

In commenting on an article by Professor William Lyon Phelps of Yale, which appeared in the Good Housekeeping magazine, Judge Hill spoke his conviction that thousands of youths in New York and other cities could be saved from criminal careers through religious training. "As a jurist who judges thousands of crime-broken boys and girls each year," he said, "I agree with Mr. Phelps that religion is necessary to the happiness of American youth, but it is not enough to merely send children to church. Parents, too, must attend, for the child inevitably follows the example set by its father and mother."

"I don't drink," says Joe Platak, nationally famous handball player. "It takes too much out of you—stuff you need when a guy's pushing you for the match."

Youth's Temperance Council members are training for leadership, with the result that young men and young women organized a total of 33 Loyal Temperance Legions, and sponsored 78 legions during 1937.

The Hon. Fred G. Bale of Washington recently stated publicly that he had made it a practice to visit places where liquor is sold in this nation and to count the number of girls and women present in comparison with the men.

He had found in the places visited during four recent months that the women present outnumbered the men by thirty-two percent.

Clinton N. Howard of Washington, D. C., in an address before the New York Ministerial Association, said: "The whole world has gone off on a drunk."

Russia is drunk on vodka, Japan is drunk on sake, Italy is drunk on wine, France is drunk on champagne, England is drunk on half and half, Ireland is drunk on whiskey, and the United States is drunk on them all."
